

PREFACE	ix
ABBREVIATIONS, SIGNS, AND SYMBOLS	xi
FREQUENTLY CITED WORKS BY HEGEL	xv
EDITORIAL INTRODUCTION	1
1. Hegel's Four Series of Lectures on the Philosophy of Religion	1
2. Sources and Editions of the Philosophy-of- Religion Lectures	7
3. The Structure, Context, and Distinctive Themes of the Lectures in Brief	11
4. Analysis of the Text of the 1827 Lectures	26
a. The Concept of Religion	27
b. Determinate Religion	40
c. The Consummate Religion	59
THE LECTURES OF 1827
INTRODUCTION	73
Preface	75
1. Comparison of Philosophy and Religion with Regard to Their Object	77
2. The Relation of the Science of Religion to the Needs of Our Time	80
3. Survey of the Treatment of Our Subject	100
PART I. THE CONCEPT OF RELIGION	111
A. The Concept of God	114

B. The Knowledge of God	128
1. Immediate Knowledge	133
2. Feeling	138
3. Representation	144
4. Thought	151
a. The Relationship of Thought and Representation	152
b. The Relationship of Immediate and Mediated Knowledge	155
c. Religious Knowledge as Elevation to God	162
C. The Cultus	189
PART II. DETERMINATE RELIGION	199
Introduction	201
A. Immediate Religion, or Nature Religion	209
Introduction	209
a. The Original Condition	209
b. The Forms of Nature Religion	219
1. The Religion of Magic	223
a. The Concept of Magic	223
b. Less Developed Religions of Magic	229
c. The State Religion of the Chinese Empire and the Dao	235
2. The Religion of Being-Within-Self (Buddhism, Lamaism)	250
3. The Hindu Religion	267
a. The One Substance	270
b. The Multiplicity of Powers	271
c. The Cultus	283
d. Transition to the Next Stage	292
4. The Religions of Transition	297
a. The Religion of Light (Persian Religion) Transition to the Next Stage	297
b. Egyptian Religion	313
B. The Elevation of the Spiritual above the Natural: The Religion of the Greeks and the Jews	328

1. The Religion of Beauty, or Greek Religion	330
a. The Divine Content	331
b. The Cultus	350
2. The Religion of Sublimity, or Jewish Religion	357
a. The Unity of God	358
b. Divine Self-Determination and Representation	359
c. The Cultus	374
C. The Religion of Expediency: Roman Religion	375
1. The Concept of Purposiveness	376
2. The Configuration of the Gods	378
3. The Cultus	384
PART III. THE CONSUMMATE RELIGION	389
Introduction	391
1. Definition of This Religion	391
2. The Positivity and Spirituality of This Religion	393
3. Survey of Previous Developments	404
4. Division of the Subject	413
A. The First Element: The Idea of God In and For Itself	417
B. The Second Element: Representation, Appearance	432
1. Differentiation	432
a. Differentiation within the Divine Life and in the World	432
b. Natural Humanity	437
c. The Story of the Fall	442
d. Knowledge, Estrangement, and Evil	446
2. Reconciliation	452
a. The Idea of Reconciliation and Its Appearance in a Single Individual	452
b. The Historical, Sensible Presence of Christ	458
c. The Death of Christ and the Transition to Spiritual Presence	464
C. The Third Element: Community, Spirit	470
1. The Origin of the Community	472
2. The Subsistence of the Community	475
3. The Realization of the Spirituality of the Community	481

APPENDIXES

TABLES	491
Systematic Structure of the Philosophy of Religion	492
Comparative Structure of Hegel's Introduction	494
Comparative Structure of The Concept of Religion	496
Comparative Structure of Determinate Religion	498
Comparative Structure of The Consummate Religion	500
BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SOURCES FOR HEGEL'S PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION	503
GLOSSARY	527
INDEX	537